HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR CHECKLIST

While some students have the drive and motivation to make it through the college prep and scholarship process without any parental guidance, most students need a little extra nudge. Still, many parents aren't sure where they can or should step in. This checklist will help you guide your child through their high school senior year so they can stay on track as they prepare for college and help them secure money for a debt-free education.

How to Use This Checklist

While these checklists are strong guidelines for the admission and scholarship process, feel free to adapt them as needed.

If your child is younger than a senior, start working through the items for senior year. It never hurts to start researching and preparing earlier than senior year.

If your child is already in college, they can still focus on getting involved and working on scholarship applications. Follow the steps for these topics and they can work towards a debt-free school year!
