
Thailand

An aerial photograph of a town in Thailand. In the foreground, a large construction site is visible, featuring a concrete structure under development. The town is densely packed with houses, many with colorful roofs, and is surrounded by lush greenery and palm trees. In the background, there are rolling hills and a clear sky.

By: Izzy

Asia

*This is the ranat is the generic
name for keyboard Percussion instruments used in thailand.*

The Ranat

The instrument is called a khlui it is like a flute. The khlui has 7 finger holes and a thumb hole.

The khlui

This instrument is a gong
The gong is hit with a drumstick type thing. It makes a loud sound.

Gong.

I chose Thailand because it is bright and colorful and i here a lot of people talk about Thailand being so cool and i really want to go there.

